

Gardeners

Have you ever wanted to create a small map of your garden?

Have you ever wanted to identify each plant and make notes...all in a place you can find easily at a later date? Well, here is your chance...

We are proud to introduce you to PlantMapper.com.

PlantMapper.com is a free tool which allows you to place markers over an aerial photograph of your property (or your clients' properties). Each marker can store the name, age, size and characteristics of any given plant.

We created this tool for the outdoor horticulturist—whose tech skills need some polish. This program is for someone who'd rather be enjoying the outdoors, than spending time in front a computer screen.

Additionally, our cell phone feature allows you to take photographs and document a tree's features while roaming your garden. (That's right: most cataloging can be done in the field.)

The fun part about PlantMapper.com is that after you are done you can just send a link to all your family and friends, with just a click of a button.

Come join us on PlantMapper.com to begin your mapping journey today.
